AUTHOR GUIDELINES

Author Responsibilities: For the Tuladha : Jurnal Pendidikan Dasar a, papers should attempt to present research, innovations, theoretical and/or practical insights in relevant current literature and debates. Submitted manuscripts should only be in English.

All submissions should be sent via OJS as a Word file with doc extension and maximum 4MB (do not use docx extention).

A manuscript should be no more than 10.000 words; this limit includes figures, references, and tables. This does not impose an absolute page limit on manuscripts; longer manuscripts of merit can be published in the journal. The abstract should be between 100 and 200 words.

Authors should be aware that they are addressing an international audience. Articles should present original work and, where appropriate, should acknowledge any significant contribution of others. Manuscripts submitted to Jurnal Tuladha for review should not have been accepted for publication elsewhere. As an author, you are required to secure permission if you want to reproduce any figure, table, or extract from the text of another source. This applies to direct reproduction as well as "derivative reproduction" (where you have created a new figure or table which derives substantially from a copyrighted source).

The corresponding author should always be willing to participate in the peer review process and obliged to provide retractions or corrections of mistakes. A list of references should be included in the submitted paper. Grant/financial support should be stated in the paper if available. All authors are expected to contribute significantly to the research.

Page style: Articles should be typed in 12-point font on A4 page, paginated and single-spaced. Margins should be set as top & bottom: 2 cm and left & right 3 cm. The title should be followed by an abstract of 100 to 200 words and 3 to 7 keywords. Footnotes should be avoided and endnotes kept to a minimum. All pages should be numbered.

References: Paper format including references should follow American Psychological Association (APA) (7th Edition) style. Do not use non-English and non-indonesian titles or characters.

The manuscript should be the following criteria:

Title	Straightforward, informative, and represents the contents of the article.

Abstract	Concise but at least contain the problem, purpose, method, instrument and data analysis, important findings, and implications of the research.
Keywords	Searchable by search engine, truly represents the intention of research. 3 to 7 keyword is recommended.
Introduction	Directing the reader about the importance of the research. Presenting significant problems, a clear state of the art, gap analysis, and novel concepts to fill the gaps. End it with the purpose of research.
Method	Clear and replicable. Reveals how research objectives are achieved with the appropriate tools, procedures, and stages.
Results	Presenting experimental or survey data, or any other kind of data depending on the type of research. The results are generally presented in clear and readable tables and figures.
Discussion	Meaningful. Good discussion is written as a dialogue that reveals the progress of the research in comparison to previous researches.
Conclusion	Contains a summary of research results (the most important research finding) that relates to the objectives written in the introduction.
References	Accountable, about 80% of the literature from primary sources (reputable journals) and up to date (last 10 years), at least 20 references. Use reference management tools.
